Welcome to Seattle!

On behalf of the College Broadcasters, Inc. (CBI) Board of Directors, I’d like to welcome you to Seattle for the National Student Electronic Media Convention (NSEMC), or CBI Seattle for short. CBI Seattle is America’s top convention dedicated exclusively to the interests of student radio stations, TV/video outlets, and webcasters. Whichever category—or categories—you fall into, we are confident that you will leave the convention with the skills and motivation to improve your student media outlet.

In its third year, the NSEMC continues to grow. Among the improvements this year are an additional breakout room, giving you the choice of six sessions during most time slots; a pre-convention workshop—FCC 101, an intensive, three-hour pre-convention workshop hosted by a veteran adviser and a nationally-known attorney. That’s in addition to what’s made us so successful since our inception—high-quality sessions led by advisers and media professionals, student-led roundtables, and networking and social opportunities.

I am pleased to announce that this year’s keynote address will be given by Seattle broadcast legend John Curley. During his 30-year radio and TV career, John has earned numerous accolades, including multiple local Emmy Awards and the Edward R. Murrow Award for Excellence in Journalism. John previously hosted KING 5 TV’s “Evening Magazine”—America’s highest-rated regionally produced TV show for fourteen years—and currently hosts “The Curley and Tom Morning Show” on KIRO 97.3 FM. In his high-energy presentation, John will share his personal formula for succeeding through difficulty and achieving career goals. John's presentation will be Saturday afternoon at 2, followed by the presentation of the National Student Production Awards.

While you’re attending the convention, we urge you to take advantage of our downtown Seattle location. We are just blocks from the famed Pike Place Market, and attractions such as the Space Needle and Chihuly Garden are also nearby. And we’ve arranged discounted tickets to the famed Experience Music Project Museum for our registrants—a must for anyone interested in music or cutting-edge pop culture. (EMP Ticket details on page 14.)

Finally, as with everything CBI does, the NSEMC would not be possible without our members. Thank you for being here, and for supporting CBI in all of its activities. Please let us know what you liked and how we can improve. Our membership meeting will be held on Thursday at 5:15 PM in Vista, and a post-convention survey is available at http://AskCBI.org/seattle/survey/ to complete at the conclusion of the convention. We need your feedback to help us grow and serve you better.

Thank you,
Greg Weston

Keynote Speaker—Saturday 2:00 PM

CBI welcomes John Curley in the Courtyard Ballroom on Saturday. Curley is host of “The Curley and Tom Morning Radio Show” on KIRO 97.3 FM.

John Curley hosted KING 5 TV’s “Evening Magazine,” the highest-rated regionally produced TV show in the country for fourteen years. Honored with numerous regional Emmy Awards and the Edward R. Murrow Award for Excellence in Journalism, it remains a favorite highlighting the people, places and events that make the Cascadia Region so special.

Through his work at “Evening Magazine,” John quickly became the most recognized local TV personality and was voted by the readers of “Seattle Weekly” as their favorite “TV Guy.” The show has continued to provide a window on the Northwest and John is an even more familiar face today to many looking for fun and positive stories.

John Curley entertains with self-deprecating stories of his rise and “luck” in life and his career. John was never what you would call a scholar. What makes him an exceptionally popular motivational speaker is his ability to tell outrageously funny stories about himself and his implausible career moves. His gift of gab took him from selling bedpans and other glamorous medical devices to the wonderful world of television.

John is fortunate enough to have appeared on stage at the 5th Ave. Theatre and unfortunate enough to have appeared in various infomercials, including the least successful infomercial of all time. When you meet John ask him why Julia Roberts hates him, Tom Hanks fears him, and why Oprah says John tells one of the best stories she has ever heard.

National Student Production Awards—Saturday 3:00 PM

Join us in the Courtyard Ballroom as Steve Migliore, Co-Host and Executive Producer of “The BJ Shea Morning Experience” on KISW 99.9 FM emcees this event! A complete list of finalists can be found on pages 7 & 8. CBI salutes the best in student video and audio production during the presentation of the National Student Production Awards. Come to this session to accept your award or to view and hear the best in student-produced media. Thank you to participating CBI members and those who helped judge the awards this summer.

Nine TV Newscasts. One Week. How?
Producing nine quality television newscasts a week takes dedication and exacting standards. Our news team functions around the clock to provide morning and nightly newscasts for our small college town. How do our producers and reporters gather enough relevant content for nine newscasts a week? How did we build an efficient, self-sustaining television news team that searches for local content while being full-time college students? We’ll reveal the secret balance to being a college student, leading a news team, and successfully producing unique content for a small-market television station.

KWVA Radio Live Sessions: Now in Multimedia
The intent behind music at KWVA is to provide content not heard elsewhere. This includes a particular focus on bringing artists into the station for interviews and in-studio performances. KWVA recently added another component to these live on-air performances: creating multimedia pieces branded as “KWVA Live Sessions.” These sessions help provide DJs the opportunity to interact and network with professional recording artists and produce a unique experience for listeners while also creating additional multimedia content that can then be shared on KWVAs various social media platforms. We’ll show you how you can set up something similar at your station.

Archiving College Radio and its History
Although college radio has been a pioneer for nearly 100 years, its history is largely unknown. It’s important for stations to investigate history in order to learn from the past and build alumni. College radio history projects can boost one’s status by 1) providing publicity 2) aiding student recruitment and 3) deepening a school’s understanding of its station. Documenting station history can ensure that the legacy of your innovators is honored. We’ll share tidbits and tips on how to get started.

I Can't Believe We're Still Trying to Figure Out the Indecency Thing

More than a decade after Bonne’s F-bomb and Janet’s wardrobe malfunction put enforcement of the FCC’s indecency rule on everybody’s minds, are we any closer to clarifying what can land a station in legal trouble? Following the Supreme Court’s decision in the Fox case in 2012, the FCC suggested that indecency enforcement might not include unplanned, fleeting instances and asked for comment on the issue. More than a year later, the inquiry remains open. What do students and advisers need to know? Panelists may also discuss other content-related legal matters of interest to college broadcasters. Bring your questions!

50 Promotions Ideas in 50 Minutes
How do you promote your radio station or TV channel? Looking for ideas that have worked for other schools? Bring ideas to the session and take home a few new ones!

- Dan Schumacher, General Manager, Texas State University, KTSW-FM

Marion 3:00 PM

NCE Station Upgrades, FM Translators and LPFMs
Some previous rules limiting non-commercial educational stations’ coverage areas no longer exist, which means you could possibly apply for a previously non-viable power increase or site change. The acquisition of an FM translator could benefit an FM or AM station under the right circumstances. And, the first round of the next generation of LPFM construction permits and licenses have been granted. Could yours be improved now that other applications have been either amended or dismissed, or with the relaxation of the new the rules governing this service? Learn what possibilities may exist for your particular facility and situation.

- Laura Mizrahi, Vice President, Communications Technologies, Inc.
- Judy Endean, Attorney, Garvey Schubert Barer

Columbia 3:00 PM

Radio Programming Directors Roundtable
Student radio programming directors should attend to meet other program directors, discuss their experiences and ask questions in this roundtable session.

- Brian Shimer, Programming Director, University of Oregon, KWVA

North 4:00 PM

Processing Audio for Digital Demons and Dragons
Too loud? Not loud enough? Does your station need to sound better? What about your streaming channels? Better source means better sound! Have you heard High Resolution Audio? Join the discussion with panelists from the music industry, broadcast engineering, audio processing and digital signal processing and audio media production experts considering the how’s and why’s of audio processing. Bring your questions and let the experts help you make your station sound the best.

- Deepen Sinha, President, ATC Labs
- Mike Lyons, VP Sales & Marketing, ATC Labs
- Tom McGinley, Director of Engineering and MIS, CBS Radio

East 4:00 PM

Radio Show and Tell
A fun, freewheeling session where stations can share anything they do. Airchecks, phone bits, newscasts, sports play-by-play and more. Bring a CD or thumb drive with your best stuff! Moderators and participants provide constructive feedback.

- Chris Wheatley, Manager, TV and Radio Operations, Ithaca College
- Dan Schumacher, General Manager, Texas State University, KTSW-FM

Seven Steps to Selling Success
Sales positions are among the best paying jobs in broadcasting. Sales is an outlet for your creativity. Every day is new and different. Sales careers open the doors to management, and there are more job opportunities in sales than other positions. A typical day may be different than you think. Hear what the job is really like and how Seven Steps to Selling Success leads to a successful broadcast career.

John Potter, SVP/Professional Development, Radio Advertising Bureau

East 9:00 AM
Mother Nature’s Mad: Conveying Urgency in Severe Weather Coverage
Scientific background or not, people in the media have the important job of informing viewers of incoming weather events. How do you convey urgency days before a weather event and keep the public’s attention until the storm hits? How do you convey danger without scaring viewers? Our television station has covered a variety of weather events, from hurricanes to Nor’Easters with urgency by warning viewers before, during storms with live coverage and with social media. Guidelines for both meteorologists and journalists alike will be laid out for covering an event.

Molly Matott, Chief Meteorologist, SUNY Oswego, WTOP

James 9:00 AM
Working With Your Administration
You can’t assume you have a good relationship with your college administration and student government—you have to work on it. It could mean the difference between your budget or even your organization’s future as several media operations have recently discovered. This session will assist you with ideas to build positive relationships with the leaders on your campus to benefit and shield your media operation.

Warren Kozierski, General Manager, College at Brockport, WBSU
John Morris, General Manager, University of Southern Indiana, The Edge Radio

Marion 9:00 AM
It Costs How Much?: Smart Spending on a Small TV Budget
It is becoming difficult to manage television station budgets as operational costs increase and institutional support decreases. Complicating matters are when the student staff needs benefit conflict with station priorities. This conflict provides an opportunity for students to learn management lessons. This panel will discuss ways advisers and student staff can work together to create both short-term and long-term budget solutions. Learn how to leverage campus relationships, identify revenue streams and produce content without compromising quality.

Justin Bailey, Director of Television Services, University of Wisconsin Oshkosh
Justine Braun, Station Manager, University of Wisconsin Oshkosh, Titan TV
Adam Steinbach, Operations Manager, University of Wisconsin Oshkosh, Titan TV

Columbia 9:00 AM
Faculty Roundtable
Open to full-time faculty members, this roundtable invites you to meet with other faculty media advisers and discuss ways CBI can provide resources for teaching and research opportunities for professional growth.

Lisa Marshall, Faculty Station Manager, Muskingum University, WMCO

South 10:00 AM
Next Generation Radio Presents
CBI partnered with NPR and NPR member stations to produce a multimedia bootcamp for the next generation of journalists. All week, competitively selected students have worked side-by-side with public media professionals to produce character-driven stories about people of the Pacific Northwest. Come hear and see what they’ve done.

Doug Mitchell, Project Manager, NPR
Phyllis Fletcher, Managing Editor, Northwest News Network

North 10:00 AM
Video Media Management from Pre-Production to Distribution Discussion
As television moves to tapeless workflows and multiple distributions, creating best practices for handling media is becoming increasingly more important. Are your drives getting bogged down with inefficient codecs? Unclear what a codec is? Have a great solution for managing show archives? TV/video outlets can share and brainstorm ideas for organizing content during production and distribution. Please come with both problems and solutions to share at this important session as we use this opportunity to develop the best practices for media management.

Justine Stokes, Director of Television Services, University of Wisconsin Oshkosh

West 10:00 AM
Live Band Performances for Radio: From Concept to Air, a Discussion
Your station plays innovative music, but do artists ever get to play live? The popularity of live in-studios on public and community radio is growing. Can your college station catch up? This discussion is dedicated to sharing each radio station’s experiences with in-studio performances. Come see how one college radio station does it, then discuss all steps of the process of live band management, from developing connections to music leaders in the local community, to creating a reliable weekly schedule of performers, to engineering live band broadcasts and developing the requisite artist interviewing skills.

Chal Pittman, Station Manager, University of Wisconsin-Madison, WSUM

East 10:00 AM
On-Air Presence and Practice: The Sound and Skills for your On-Air Personality
Learn what it takes to create and maintain a winning radio on-air presence—from voice and program content, to creating a good overall presence for your station and in your community. Local media personalities and reporters will show you how they’ve been successful and offer advice on what you should be doing right now to create a winning presence that will get you that on-air job when you graduate.

Ed Hill, Program Director, CBS Seattle, 94.1 KMPZ-FM
Sara Lerner, Reporter/Anchor, KUOW
Angela Russell, Anchor, KIRO-TV
Kristina De Leon, News 4 WOAI San Antonio Morning Reporter

James 10:00 AM
Sports Talk Show: A Student Station Example of How to Do It
Sports talk shouldn’t be boring! Learn how these students make their show fun and lively. They discuss what topics to include and how they incorporated social media and do remotes. They cover both college and professional sports, interview sports personalities, sports companies and journalists from around the area and have weekly interviews set up with coaches and players of all sports. How do they balance all of this and keep it entertaining? Come and hear them tell you their stories.

Warren Schorr, Sports Director, Texas State University, KTSW-FM
Melissa Bond, Station Manager, Texas State University, KTSW-FM

Marion 10:00 AM
Recruiting High School Students to Your College Station
College radio stations should invite local high school students to tour their facilities, as they will find some interest, expose students to your station, and perhaps help drive applications to your school. It also can make your station more valuable to the administration and provide you with new staff that otherwise would have never applied to your school in the first place. This would help the student who may be interested in studying communications decide which college they might want to attend. For the college station, it would be good for recruiting new staff members.

Pete Bowers, Bloomfield Hills High School, Founder High School Radio Day
Bob Long, General Manager, Streetsboro High School, WSTB Radio
Janice Windborne, Faculty Advisor, Otterbein College, WOBN

Columbia 10:00 AM
2015 Convention Planning Committee: Call for Participants
Join the convention planning committee and help CBI grow the annual convention session offerings to be more reflective of the needs of members. Even though our session approval rating is more than 90 percent, we can’t rest on our laurels. We must continue to bring new and innovative sessions by recruiting new people, and new ideas to sessions so there are fresh voices, thoughts and ideas. We need to bring in local media professionals in the Minneapolis market. If you can help to curate sessions for the CBI NSEMC Oct. 22-24, 2015 you should join this session!

Will Robedee, CBI Executive Director, Rice University
CBI Board of Directors
North 11:00 AM
I'm in Charge, Now What?!
You've become a manager at your student-run station. Congratulations! Now what do you do? How will you set and meet goals? Can you manage a friend without ruining your friendship? How do you determine what your adviser or your school want from you? Are learning outcomes important? Your station's success, and yours, depends a lot on how you manage others, and yourself. This session will cover basic management techniques for student media, from running an effective meeting to establishing priorities to keeping it all together. No matter your background or experience, you can be an effective station leader.
Mark Maben, General Manager, Seton Hall University, WSOU-FM
Erica Szczepaniak, Student Station Manager, Seton Hall University, WSOU-FM

West 11:00 AM
Low-Power FM for College Broadcasters
This session discusses the process of building functional and cost-effective LPFM studio and transmitter facilities, station operation and programming, FCC staffing requirements and record keeping, FCC required EAS equipment and operation, and FCC Inspections. The presentation includes a discussion of the present status and future of LPFM. Hear about all of this from an award-winning engineer who recently helped launch KXSU-LP at Seattle University.
Jim Dalke, CEO, Dalke Broadcast Services, Inc.

East 11:00 AM
Reading City Spaces: A Guide to International Multimedia Journalism
This session seeks to introduce students, faculty and advisers to an innovative method of teaching and learning multimedia journalism in foreign contexts. Reading a city's public spaces as texts allows students to parachute into another country, quickly identify story ideas, gain access to the sources needed, and produce compelling multimedia that transcends the merely touristy. This "place as text" method enables students to begin to understand at least part of what makes that city and its inhabitants unique, including values, norms and tensions. This session will present a case study from Madrid.
Brian Carroll, Associate Professor of Communication, Berry College
Kevin Kleine, Senior Lecturer, Communication Department, Berry College

James 11:00 AM
TV/Video Advisers Roundtable
Student media advisers all face similar problems, such as dealing with supervisors "who don't get it," students who don't perform, and more. Let's get together in a safe environment and share ideas, strategies, and tactics for making our work "smarter, not harder." This is your chance to share and obtain advice in a friendly, unstructured format.
Gladys Cleland, Professor, Onondaga Community College
Maureen Carrigg, Associate Professor, Wayne State College, KWSC-TV

Marion 11:00 AM
